

THE DAILY DEMOCRAT.

PRINTED AND PUBLISHED BY
HARNEY, HUGHES & CO.,
THIRD STREET,
East side, between Market and Jefferson streets.

SPECIAL ADVERTISING NOTICE.—All advertisements of Public Meetings, Masonic, Odd Fellows, Firemen, &c., are charged fifty cents per square of two columns, and twenty-five cents each subsequent insertion.

ADVERTISEMENTS OF SITUATIONS Wanted, Religious, Commercial, &c.—Fifty cents per column, or less, are charged twenty-five cents each insertion.

ADVERTISEMENTS published in the morning paper are charged twenty-five cents per column, or less, and twenty-five cents per line.

ALL TRANSIENT ADVERTISEMENTS, PAYABLE IN ADVANCE.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1855.

Editor of the Louisville Journal de-sends to the vulgar demagogues of an appeal to mechanics and laborers against foreigners, because the latter, as the editor says, under-work American mechanics and laborers. Native-born citizens are likely to be supplant in many industrial pursuits by the foreigners. Well, what if they are, do the demagogues offer any remedy for the evil? They propose a change in the naturalization laws, and propose to exclude foreigners from all the offices. A change in the naturalization laws will not make foreigners demand higher wages, and the offices foreigners do not get will not be left to the native mechanic or laborer. The demagogues of the Know-Nothing party want them all.

The article in the Journal, if its statements are true, only serve to stir up the mean prejudices of native Americans, and create a war of races, indeed, it is the tendency of nine-tenths of what is written by Know-Nothing editors to inflame the passions of the American-born against foreigners.

The effort is to make the latter objects of suspicion, aversion, and hate. The success of the new party depends upon the amount of hostility the low demagogues can get up between the native-born and the foreigner. They labor for a crusade against the adopted citizens of this country.

But is it true that we have an over-supply of labor in this country, and that wages are low in consequence of foreign immigration? There never was a wider field open for labor in this country than there is now; there never was more capital to employ it. Wages were never better, take the country over generally.

Foreign immigration, instead of diminishing wages, has increased them. Foreign laborers and mechanics are not only producers but consumers. Take out the foreign population from Louisville, and the capital owned by foreigners, and there would be more work to do by those left behind? Would wages be better? Let any man of sense answer such questions.

Editor of the New York Courier and Enquirer, who has recently manifested a decided proclivity towards the Fusionists of that State, called the Republican party, has at least taken one solid position. In his issue of the 10th instant, he writes:

We can vote for no candidates for Judges who are members of a secret political organization, and therefore must withhold support from the Know-Nothing nominees, whatever they may do.

We have always maintained that no man who could consent to connect himself with such an organization could be safely trusted with Judicial authority, and we have now the best reason for declaring that we have not been mistaken in the views we have expressed. The thing has been practically tested, and it is desirable that public confidence in the Judiciary shall be sustained, and the laws impartially administered, the people should confide these duties to men uncontaminated by fraternal affiliations in secret political Councils.

The Miner's Journal, the old Whig paper of Pottsville, Pa., thus accounts for his late defection:

Again, the Roman Catholic vote of the county, which always goes in a solid body with the opponents of Americanism, was heavy, and the majority of the Protestant voters gave their votes in opposition to the Democratic party, were, on the occasion of the recent election, in their interests, and that it was their duty to sustain those measures which heretofore they had so warmly op-

The editor of the Louisville Journal informs his readers that the whole foreign vote was cast for Mr. Pierce in 1852. The editor knew very little about the subject when he made the assertion. There is a large proportion of foreigners who never vote the Democratic ticket; indeed, a good many of them actually voted the Know-Nothing ticket at the late elections, and thereby furnished the best evidence they could that they were not fit to vote in a free country.

Here the editor says Protestant foreigners—English, Welsh, &c.—in former years voted against the Democratic ticket. It is much to their credit that they wouldn't vote Know-Nothing. They had self-respect enough not to kiss the hand that struck them.

New York Day Book.—The accomplished correspondent of this paper, Mrs. Foster, is now at the Louisville Hotel. She is the agent of the Day Book, as well as the correspondent.

The Day Book is a national paper, against all the pestilentialisms of the day. It deserves the support of the Southern section of this country. If any one wishes a daily or weekly from the great commercial emporium that is sound and national in politics, and ably conducted, we recommend the Day Book.

That German paper at Detroit, which is organ of the Republican party, which is made up of Abolitionists and Know-Nothings. The funny part of the story is, that the editor of the Commonwealth takes up the crazy notion that the Michigan Volksblatt is a Democratic paper, and proceed to discourse about it with an owl-like wisdom. We can inform him that the Volksblatt is a good brother of his, and united with him in a holy hatred of Douglass, Pierce & Co.

Late Publications.—A MODERN SCHOOL GEOGRAPHY. By COLTON & FISKE. This is a very good work for common schools—a neat quarto, with the map and description of the earth's surface on the same page. We commend it to the attention of trustees and teachers of schools.

PHYSICAL GEOGRAPHY. By FITCH. We believe this is the only work of the kind in print, in a form suitable for schools. The general reader will be interested in a perusal of this volume. It is much more instructive than a book of endless, unchanging, and ever-to-be-forgotten details.

An important item of news by the last steamer is the notice that the Sultan has offered inducements to European capitalists to establish railroads through his dominions. It is probable that the iron horse will be soon traveling in Turkey.

A Feature Worthy of Notice.—We publish under separate headings in the Democrat, all advertisements classified and arranged in regular order. In the first column, following reading matter on the second page, may be found such miscellaneous advertisements as pertain to the general trade. Under the head of "WANTS" are placed such as appropriately belong there, also, under the head of "FOR SALE AND RENT," may be found such as should find this classification. Under the head of "AMUSEMENTS," and such advertisements as theatre, concert, &c.—"AUCTION SALES" under appropriate head-steamboats, under "STEAMBOATS" heading; "Books and Music," in column appropriated to such advertisements, and so throughout the paper.

Our friends and the public generally are reminded that the circulation of the Democrat is unequalled in our party, West or South, and that it is through its columns alone that thousands of readers can be reached. Our terms are reasonable, and we invite advertisers generally to post themselves to the advantages of advertising the Democrat.

Those who wish to hear the Rev. G. W. Smiley's introductory sermon on the great subject of Life, Death, Resurrection, &c., at the Third Street Methodist Church, to-morrow, at 11 o'clock A. M., should go early, as great numbers were unable to get seats last Sabbath night.

Decreased Daily.—The Sandusky (O.) Mirror has breathed its last daily breath, and will hereafter be issued only as a weekly paper.

All Sorts of Paragraphs.

We publish upon the first page, this morning, an interesting little story, and several items of news and miscellany, to which we invite the attention of readers generally.

Saltpetre is said to exist in "caves," in Crawford, Franklin, Boone, and Oage counties, Missouri, enough to meet all deficiencies in the market.

One of the best epigrams ever written was composed a good many years ago, by—we don't know whom. Quien sabe? Here it is:

As Harry one day was abusing the sex, thing that in courtship but studious to vex, And in marriage but sought to enthrall; Never mind him," says Kate, "tis a family whim; His FATHER agar, as easily with him, That he would never marry at all!"

A chap sums up his list of wants as follows:

The club with which an urchin struck the poet. A stick to measure narrow escapes. The hook and umbrella to use in the reign of King C. Some lemonade made of a sour temper and the sweets of matrimony. Some of the other fish the man had to fry. A cement for filling the decayed teeth of sows. A lock of hair from the brow of a mountain. A tooth from the mouth of the Wabash river.

"Seest thou a man wise in his own conceit; then is there more fool of him own."

Louisville has less sickness, and fewer deaths, perhaps, than any city of its size in the Union. While we read the long lists of mortality in other cities, we are thankful for the blessings of health here.

The catalogue of the officers and students of Harvard University, just published, contains the names of 669 students in the different departments. Of these 365 are undergraduates, which is the largest number ever upon the rolls at one time. There are 14 Divinity students, 111 Law students, 57 Scientific students, 2 Astronomical students, 104 Medical students, and 6 Resident Graduates.

A Yankee poet thus describes the excess of his devotion to his true love:

From early morn to dewy eve; I cry whole plights of bitter tears, And wipe them with my sleeve.

Business is becoming more active. The city is beginning to assume its wonted aspect.

Gen. Wm. when he abandoned Matamoras for the United States, took $75,000 from the military chest to smooth his way.

It is now stated that Gen. Scott's pay under the lieutenant general bill is to be allowed, and that the accountants in the treasury are now figuring up the amount of back pay due him.

A contemporary, reviewing a young lady's poems says: "It will afford us much pleasure to meet her at any future period, when her leisure may permit."

Future historians, like the geologists, will judge of events now passing, by the remains of various shells which they will find.

Man, says the anatomist, changes entirely every seven years; "therefore," says Jones, "my tailor should not ask me for the bill I contracted in 1840—I am not the same person—hence I owe him nothing."

A man said of a painter he knew, that "he painted a shingle so exactly marble that when it fell into the water it sank!" The shingle was painted.

The Crimea contains only 8,600 square miles. Mrs. Partington says that a gentleman laughed so heartily, that she feared he would have burst his jocular vein."

Whysould ladies make better traders and pedlars than men? Knew they never had share.

LILLIPUTIAN POETRY.

Man's vapor; Full of woes; Cuts a cap—Down he goes!

A Western editor, speaking of a concert singer, says that her voice is delicious—pure as moonlight, and as tender as a three-shilling shirt!—Editor's bump of pathos decidedly large.

Spincs, is attributed to Arabia. White Miller.

Louis Brandt of Indiana, Texas, is making the native grasses of the country, which always goes in a solid body with the opponents of Americanism, was heavy, and the majority of the Protestant voters gave their votes in opposition to the Democratic party, were, on the occasion of the recent election, in their interests, and that it was their duty to sustain those measures which heretofore they had so warmly op-

The editor of the Louisville Journal informs his readers that the whole foreign vote was cast for Mr. Pierce in 1852. The editor knew very little about the subject when he made the assertion. There is a large proportion of foreigners who never vote the Democratic ticket; indeed, a good many of them actually voted the Know-Nothing ticket at the late elections, and thereby furnished the best evidence they could that they were not fit to vote in a free country.

Here the editor says Protestant foreigners—English, Welsh, &c.—in former years voted against the Democratic ticket. It is much to their credit that they wouldn't vote Know-Nothing. They had self-respect enough not to kiss the hand that struck them.

The Day Book is a national paper, against all the pestilentialisms of the day. It deserves the support of the Southern section of this country.

If any one wishes a daily or weekly from the great commercial emporium that is sound and national in politics, and ably conducted, we recommend the Day Book.

That German paper at Detroit, which is organ of the Republican party, which is made up of Abolitionists and Know-Nothings. The funny part of the story is, that the editor of the Commonwealth takes up the crazy notion that the Michigan Volksblatt is a Democratic paper, and proceed to discourse about it with an owl-like wisdom. We can inform him that the Volksblatt is a good brother of his, and united with him in a holy hatred of Douglass, Pierce & Co.

Late Publications.—A MODERN SCHOOL GEOGRAPHY. By COLTON & FISKE. This is a very good work for common schools—a neat quarto, with the map and description of the earth's surface on the same page. We commend it to the attention of trustees and teachers of schools.

PHYSICAL GEOGRAPHY. By FITCH. We believe this is the only work of the kind in print, in a form suitable for schools. The general reader will be interested in a perusal of this volume. It is much more instructive than a book of endless, unchanging, and ever-to-be-forgotten details.

An important item of news by the last steamer is the notice that the Sultan has offered inducements to European capitalists to establish railroads through his dominions. It is probable that the iron horse will be soon traveling in Turkey.

A Feature Worthy of Notice.—We publish under separate headings in the Democrat, all advertisements classified and arranged in regular order. In the first column, following reading matter on the second page, may be found such miscellaneous advertisements as pertain to the general trade. Under the head of "WANTS" are placed such as appropriately belong there, also, under the head of "FOR SALE AND RENT," may be found such as should find this classification. Under the head of "AMUSEMENTS," and such advertisements as theatre, concert, &c.—"AUCTION SALES" under appropriate head-steamboats, under "STEAMBOATS" heading; "Books and Music," in column appropriated to such advertisements, and so throughout the paper.

Our friends and the public generally are reminded that the circulation of the Democrat is unequalled in our party, West or South, and that it is through its columns alone that thousands of readers can be reached. Our terms are reasonable, and we invite advertisers generally to post themselves to the advantages of advertising the Democrat.

Those who wish to hear the Rev. G. W. Smiley's introductory sermon on the great subject of Life, Death, Resurrection, &c., at the Third Street Methodist Church, to-morrow, at 11 o'clock A. M., should go early, as great numbers were unable to get seats last Sabbath night.

Decreased Daily.—The Sandusky (O.) Mirror has breathed its last daily breath, and will hereafter be issued only as a weekly paper.

All Sorts of Paragraphs.

We publish upon the first page, this morning, an interesting little story, and several items of news and miscellany, to which we invite the attention of readers generally.

Saltpetre is said to exist in "caves," in Crawford, Franklin, Boone, and Oage counties, Missouri, enough to meet all deficiencies in the market.

One of the best epigrams ever written was composed a good many years ago, by—we don't know whom. Quien sabe? Here it is:

As Harry one day was abusing the sex, thing that in courtship but studious to vex, And in marriage but sought to enthrall; Never mind him," says Kate, "tis a family whim; His FATHER agar, as easily with him, That he would never marry at all!"

A chap sums up his list of wants as follows:

The club with which an urchin struck the poet. A stick to measure narrow escapes. The hook and umbrella to use in the reign of King C. Some lemonade made of a sour temper and the sweets of matrimony. Some of the other fish the man had to fry. A cement for filling the decayed teeth of sows. A lock of hair from the brow of a mountain. A tooth from the mouth of the Wabash river.

"Seest thou a man wise in his own conceit; then is there more fool of him own."

Louisville has less sickness, and fewer deaths, perhaps, than any city of its size in the Union. While we read the long lists of mortality in other cities, we are thankful for the blessings of health here.

The catalogue of the officers and students of Harvard University, just published, contains the names of 669 students in the different departments. Of these 365 are undergraduates, which is the largest number ever upon the rolls at one time. There are 14 Divinity students, 111 Law students, 57 Scientific students, 2 Astronomical students, 104 Medical students, and 6 Resident Graduates.

A Yankee poet thus describes the excess of his devotion to his true love:

From early morn to dewy eve; I cry whole plights of bitter tears, And wipe them with my sleeve.

Business is becoming more active. The city is beginning to assume its wonted aspect.

Gen. Wm. when he abandoned Matamoras for the United States, took $75,000 from the military chest to smooth his way.

It is now stated that Gen. Scott's pay under the lieutenant general bill is to be allowed, and that the accountants in the treasury are now figuring up the amount of back pay due him.

A contemporary, reviewing a young lady's poems says: "It will afford us much pleasure to meet her at any future period, when her leisure may permit."

Future historians, like the geologists, will judge of events now passing, by the remains of various shells which they will find.

Man, says the anatomist, changes entirely every seven years; "therefore," says Jones, "my tailor should not ask me for the bill I contracted in 1840—I am not the same person—hence I owe him nothing."

A man said of a painter he knew, that "he painted a shingle so exactly marble that when it fell into the water it sank!" The shingle was painted.

The Crimea contains only 8,600 square miles. Mrs. Partington says that a gentleman laughed so heartily, that she feared he would have burst his jocular vein."

Whysould ladies make better traders and pedlars than men? Knew they never had share.

LILLIPUTIAN POETRY.

Man's vapor; Full of woes; Cuts a cap—Down he goes!

A Western editor, speaking of a concert singer, says that her voice is delicious—pure as moonlight, and as tender as a three-shilling shirt!—Editor's bump of pathos decidedly large.

Spincs, is attributed to Arabia. White Miller.

Louis Brandt of Indiana, Texas, is making the native grasses of the country, which always goes in a solid body with the opponents of Americanism, was heavy, and the majority of the Protestant voters gave their votes in opposition to the Democratic party, were, on the occasion of the recent election, in their interests, and that it was their duty to sustain those measures which heretofore they had so warmly op-

The editor of the Louisville Journal informs his readers that the whole foreign vote was cast for Mr. Pierce in 1852. The editor knew very little about the subject when he made the assertion. There is a large proportion of foreigners who never vote the Democratic ticket; indeed, a good many of them actually voted the Know-Nothing ticket at the late elections, and thereby furnished the best evidence they could that they were not fit to vote in a free country.

Here the editor says Protestant foreigners—English, Welsh, &c.—in former years voted against the Democratic ticket. It is much to their credit that they wouldn't vote Know-Nothing. They had self-respect enough not to kiss the hand that struck them.

The Day Book is a national paper, against all the pestilentialisms of the day. It deserves the support of the Southern section of this country.

If any one wishes a daily or weekly from the great commercial emporium that is sound and national in politics, and ably conducted, we recommend the Day Book.

That German paper at Detroit, which is organ of the Republican party, which is made up of Abolitionists and Know-Nothings. The funny part of the story is, that the editor of the

